1.) The 99 Percent Declaration reformatted by Stone Riley

Call for a national assembly on July 4, 2012, a very fine thinking paper. This is a printer friendly version.

2.) Hexayurt - Excellent winter "tent"

Have nights around the camp been feeling kind of chill and breezy? Here's a tiny little house that's basically a tent - lightweight, fast to build, easy to pick up and move - but made of stiff wind-proof stuff. If you build it from sheets of insulation material then you can maybe heat your little house with just a large dog or something. (Thank you Sue for suggesting this.)

6.) "Magnificent moment of democratic awakening"

Democracy Now episode of 10/24/2011 with Amy Goodman, Cornel West and Michael Moore. A great journalist, a great college professor and a great film maker discuss our moment in history. The main discussion starts at minute 12.30. At minute 38.20: story of Niles, Michigan where 10% of the little town's population showed up for Occupy Niles. At minute 42.00: absolutely beautiful interviews with some Occupy Louisville folks in Kentucky.

7.) "Occupy Worcester attempt to occupy Worcester Common"

Excellent video of the movement's consensus democratic process in action. Shows action on the Common at Worcester, Massachusetts during the standoff between Occupy Worcester and police. Participants move into the Common and erect tents. Police swoop in immediately, surround the site, and warn protesters to leave or be arrested. There is a brief communication not caught on camera. Then the protesters leap into their democratic process, choosing their next course of action.

Filmed 10/17/2011 about 1:00am. The democratic process starts at 5.00 minutes in.

8.) Spokes Council - A Complementary Proposal for Governance of OWS

Here's an insider look at the efforts our movement is constantly making to make real democracy a real reality. We can figure out how to do this. So here's one proposal currently being discussed.

Go to www.dailykos.com and search for "spokes council proposal"

9.) Student debt - "a special kind of betrayal"

Here's an excellent brief summary of the nation's outraged frustration around student debt. Its a short video excerpt of the TV show "Up With Chris Hayes" on the MSNBC TV network.

11.) "New Obama Foreclosure Plan Helps Banks At Taxpayers' Expense"

Okay, let me get this straight. This new plan from our so-called "Democratic" president will: 1: Offer to make the homeowners' monthly payments a little smaller but also stretch those payments out more years into the future. 2: If a homeowner signs up for this but then disappears, we citizens will pay bankers to erase the debt from the books. 3: For doing this computer data entry service, we citizens will reward those bankers with the entire ballooned amount that was on the books. 4: If some other bankers committed actual criminal crimes of fraud when this loan was first created, we will also erase those bankers' crimes from the books. Have I got that straight? Is this a democratic president???

12.) Move Your Money to Main Street - Find a small bank near you

Tired of being treated evil by your big bank? There is a national popular action called "Move Your Money" but where can you move yours to??? Here's some help answering that. I put in my zip code and got 21 small bank companies totaling about 40 office locations near my home.
